

Biography

DR MICHAL MIELCAREK

Dr Michal Mielcarek obtained MSc in Chemistry from Adam Mickiewicz University, Poznan, Poland in 2000. Next, he moved to Germany to Max Planck for Heart and Lung Development in Bad Nauheim, where he carried out his PhD on the identification and characterization of novel family of transcription co-factors. In 2007, he moved to King's College London as a postdoctoral fellow, to work on Huntington's disease (HD). He is currently working at Imperial College London as a Research Fellow on novel therapies of polyQ diseases.